About COPE's Labyrinth

CONNECTING OUR PATHS ETERNALLY

COPE Foundation has dedicated a permanent labyrinth in Eisenhower Park's Memorial Plaza, sustaining the bonds of love that connect us to our loved ones who have passed.

The labyrinth is an ancient symbolic path with healing and spiritual significance that dates back to the third millennium B.C.E. It has been used within many cultures and spiritual traditions throughout the world.

For many, labyrinths represent life's journey or spiritual pilgrimage.

Walking the labyrinth often produces a calming, centering feeling. This alternating balancing motion can quiet one's body, mind and spirit, often inducing a receptive state for meditation and contemplation in the center of the labyrinth.

Join others who are dedicating memorial bricks and honor your child, sibling, or loved one in this tranquil sacred space.

Memorial Opportunities

About COPE

COPE is a grief and healing organization dedicated to helping parents, siblings and families living with the loss of a child. COPE offers emotional, therapeutic and spiritual programs, including individual and group support, alternative healing workshops, a COPEline (grief hotline), resources and referrals. COPE also sponsors Camp Erin® NYC, a bereavement camp for children ages 6-17 who have experienced the death of a parent, sibling or someone close to them.

COPE connects individuals who have experienced similar losses and who understand the pain, frustration and isolation those mourning the loss of a child or sibling often experience. By providing help and support, we enable grieving individuals to find strength from within to face the difficult journey that lies ahead.
